The Traditional Collection can be subdivided into three minor collections: the Cobalt Collection, the Guest of the City Collection, and the Flora Collection.

The Traditional Collection represents the very best of Russian design in porcelain. The Cobalt Range is the centrepiece of the Imperial Porcelain product range, and for many years it has been the trademark design of the manufactory.The classic colours of blue, white and gold perfectly enhance the elegant form and shapes of the porcelain itself. The Cobalt Collection is hand-painted and includes tea and coffee sets, a dinner service and also table decorations.

Guest of the City Collection includes porcelain items with tokens and images of Saint-Petersburg and Moscow.

Flora Collection embraces items with flower designs.

Author G. Shuliak

Galina Shuliak endues her porcelain work with simple and concise decorative pattern, which perfectly suites its shape. In her «Quattro» design the delicate lace of Cobalt net, the Imperial Porcelain Manufactory's brand-name design, is transformed into a catchy pane, able to challenge the popularity of both well-known classic designs and contemporary European designers' creations.

Author G. Shuliak

This form design was created at the Imperial Porcelain Manufactory in the mid-nineteenth century, with later additions, for the Heraldic Service. The artist used traditional Russian motifs such as multicoloured floral ornamentation, found, for example, on the walls of the Faceted Palace in the Kremlin, Moscow. The delicate floral bouquets are accented by the golden edging which creates a lightness of effect, emphasizing the refinement and dignity of the whiteness of porcelain.
